

Chris Davis is a Core Engineer at Inteva Products where he currently works on researching, developing, and implementing new technologies and processes for their Interiors product line. In his previous role as Lead Manufacturing Engineer Chris gained valuable experience coordinating the design and implementation of various interior programs from manufacturing design to equipment installation and validation. Chris holds a B.S. degree in Mechanical Engineering from Wright State University.